STIFTUNG CHARITÉ

SCIENCE X MEDIA TANDEM PROGRAM

Take your science communications to the next level by collaborating with a media professional

Do you want your research to make an impact beyond your own discipline? If you've got an idea of how you could improve your communications and reach a wider and more diverse audience, why not develop and test it out together with a media professional?

Researchers at all stages of their careers at Charité – Universitätsmedizin Berlin (including the Berlin Institute of Health at Charité and the German Heart Center Berlin) or Max Delbrück Center for Molecular Medicine can apply to Stiftung Charité with an idea, no matter whether they've already got a media partner or have yet to find one. We support projects lasting between two and nine months (or on a part-time basis over a longer period of time). We give you the freedom to implement them with funding of up to 15,000 euros per month of collaboration with your media partner.

The science x media tandem program is an innovative way for Stiftung Charité to promote and professionalize science communication in the Berlin life sciences, and is central to the foundation's Open Science agenda.

The program opens for applications annually in fall.
